MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. Nature of the Litigation and Procedural Background

This litigation, filed in the Superior Court for the State of California, County of San Diego, on April 11, 2008, seeks recovery for breach of contract and waiting time penalties on behalf of plaintiff Fabrizio Balestri (“Balestri”), the former president and chief executive officer of Student Loan Xpress, Inc. (“SLX”), which provides student loans to college students.¹ According to the complaint, defendants SLX, and its parent, CIT Group, Inc., breached a three-year employment agreement and a retention bonus agreement by failing to pay Balestri amounts due under those agreements. Balestri alleged in his complaint that SLX has its “princip[al] place of business in San Diego, California.” (Balestri Dec., Exh. A, ¶ 3.)

On May 9, 2008, the defendants filed their Notice of Removal of Action Under 28 U.S.C. § 1441(b). (Docket No. 1.) The basis asserted by the defendants for federal jurisdiction was the supposed complete diversity of citizenship between Balestri and defendants. (Id., pp. 2:11-3:2.) Although Balestri asserted in his complaint he is a citizen of California and that SLX has its principal place of business in San Diego, California, the defendants assert in their Notice of Removal that “SLX has . . . its principal place of business in the state of New Jersey.” (Docket No. 1, p. 2:23-24.)

II. This Case Should Be Remanded Because Removal Was Improper.

A. The Complaint Does Not Support Diversity Jurisdiction.

“The diversity upon which removal is predicated must be complete (citation), and should generally be determined from the face of the complaint.” (Miller v. Grgurich, 763 F.2d 372, 373 (9th Cir. 1985).) In his complaint, Balestri alleged: “SLX is a Delaware Corporation with princip[al] place of business in San Diego, California.” (Balestri Dec., Exh. A, ¶ 3.)

¹ The complaint is attached as Exhibit A to the Notice of Removal of Action Under 28 U.S.C. § 1441(b). (Docket No. 1, Exh. A.) The complaint contains two exhibits: Complaint Exhibit 1 is a three-year employment agreement between the parties dated January 4, 2005; Complaint Exhibit 2 is an amendment to the parties’ agreement dated January 10, 2006. Because it appears the defendants e-filed the exhibits to the complaint out of order (Docket No. 1, pp. 9-21), to avoid possible confusion Balestri has attached a correct copy of his complaint, with its two exhibits, to his accompanying declaration as Exhibit A. (“Balestri Dec., Exh. A”).

1 The Ninth Circuit “strictly construe[s] the removal statute against removal jurisdiction.”
 2 (Gaus v. Miles, Inc., 980 F.2d 564, 566 (9th Cir. 1992), citing Boggs v. Lewis, 863 F.2d 662, 663
 3 (9th Cir. 1988) and Takeda v. Northwestern Nat’l Life Ins. Co., 765 F.2d 815, 818 (9th Cir.
 4 1985).) “Federal jurisdiction must be rejected if there is any doubt as to the right of removal in
 5 the first instance.” (Gaus at p. 566, citing Libhart v. Santa Monica Dairy Co., 592 F.2d 1062,
 6 1064 (9th Cir. 1979).) Because defendants offered no evidence in support of their removal, other
 7 than an unsupported allegation that SLX has its principal place of business in New Jersey, the
 8 case should be remanded under Miller because Balestri’s complaint alleges that SLX’ principal
 9 place of business is in California.

10 B. There is No Complete Diversity of Citizenship Because SLX Has Its Principal
 11 Place of Business in San Diego, California.

12 1. SLX Has the Burden to Prove All Facts Necessary to Establish Diversity Jurisdiction.

13 “The ‘strong presumption’ against removal jurisdiction means that the defendant always 14 has the burden of establishing that removal is proper.” (Gaus, supra, 980 F.2d at p. 566, citing 15 Nishimoto v. Federman-Bachrach & Assocs., 903 F.2d 709, 712, n. 3 (9th Cir. 1990).) “The 16 party asserting jurisdiction has the burden of proving all jurisdictional facts.” (Industrial
 17 Tectonics, Inc. v. Aero Alloy, 912 F.2d 1090, 1092, citing McNutt v. General Motors Acceptance
 18 Corp., 298 U.S. 178, 189 (1936).) “Plaintiff’s motion for remand effectively forces the
 19 defendant—the party who invoked the federal court’s removal jurisdiction—to prove by a 20 preponderance of evidence whatever is necessary to support the petition: e.g. the existence of 21 diversity [etc.].” (Schwarzer, Tashima & Wagstaffe, Cal. Prac. Guide: Fed. Civ. Proc. Before
 22 Trial (The Rutter Group 2008) (“Schwarzer”), pp. 2D-216-217, ¶ 2:1093, citing Gaus, supra,
 23 980 F.2d 564 at p. 566 and Kenneth Rothschild Trust v. Morgan Stanley Dean Witter, 199
 24 F.Supp. 993, 1000 (C.D. Cal. 2002).

25 2. A Corporation is a Citizen of a State Where it has its Principal Place
 26 of Business.

27 “Subject matter jurisdiction based upon diversity of citizenship requires that no
 28 defendants have the same citizenship as any plaintiff.” (Tosco Corp. v. Communities for a Better

1 Environment, 236 F. 3d 495, 499 (9th Cir. 2001).) Balestri is a citizen of California (Balestri
 2 Dec., Exh. A, ¶ 1; Balestri Dec., ¶ 3), as conceded by defendants. (Docket No. 1, p. 2:17-19.)
 3 For purposes of determining whether diversity jurisdiction exists, “a corporation shall be deemed
 4 to be a citizen of any State by which it has been incorporated and of the State where it has its
 5 principal place of business.” (28 U.S.C. § 1332(c)(1).) “Thus, corporations are citizens of both 6 the state where they are incorporated and the state where they have their principal place of 7 business.” (Tosco at p. 499.) Because the parties agree that SLX is incorporated in Delaware
 8 (Docket No. 1, p. 2:23-24; Balestri Dec., Exh. A, ¶ 3), the parties are diverse only if SLX’
 9 “principal place of business” is located in a state other than California.

10 “Federal courts generally use one of two tests to determine a corporation’s principal
 11 place of business.” (Tosco, supra, 236 F.3d at p. 500.) “First, the ‘place of operations test’
 12 locates a corporation’s principal place of business in the state which ‘contains a substantial
 13 predominance of corporate operations.’” (Ibid., citing Industrial Tectonics, supra, 912 F.2d at p.
 14 1092.) “Second, the ‘nerve center test’ locates a corporation’s principal place of business in the 15 state where the majority of its executive and administrative functions are performed.” (Tosco at 16 p. 500, citing Industrial Tectonics at pp. 1092-1093.) The two tests, however, are to be applied
 17 in a prescribed order of priority: “[W]here a majority of a corporation’s business activity takes 18 place in one state, that state is the corporation’s principal place of business, even if the corporate
 19 headquarters are located in a different state.” (Tosco at 500.) “The ‘nerve center’ test should be
 20 used only when no state contains a substantial predominance of the corporation’s business
 21 activities.” (Ibid., italics in original.)

22 “The Ninth Circuit employs a number of factors to determine if a given state contains a
 23 substantial predominance of corporate activity, including the location of employees, tangible
 24 property, production activities, sources of income, and where sales take place.” (Tosco, supra,
 25 236 F.3d at p. 500, citing Industrial Tectonics, supra, 912 F.2d at 1094.) In explaining why a 26 corporation’s citizenship is appropriate where it “has its greatest contacts with the public where 27 it conducts most of its business,” the court in Industrial Tectonics stated: “Activities such as 28 employment of personnel, purchasing of materials, and sales of goods and services increase local familiarity with the corporation.” (Industrial Tectonics at p. 1094.) “This local contact alleviates problems with local prejudice against outsiders and justifies consideration of the corporation as a citizen of that state.” (Ibid.) “[C]onsidering a corporation to be a citizen of the state where it has the most public contact and greatest potential for litigation helps reduce the federal court diversity case load, which is a primary goal of the diversity statute.” (Ibid.) “[O]ne must keep in mind that the purpose of diversity jurisdiction is to avoid the effects of prejudice against outsiders.” (Ibid.) “Thus, the principal place of business should be the place where the corporation conducts the most activity that is visible and impacts the public, so that it is least likely to suffer from prejudice against outsiders.” (Ibid.)

3. SLX’ Principal Place of Business is in California Under the “Place of Operations” Test.

SLX has its principal place of business in San Diego, California. It was founded in 2002 as a subsidiary of Educational Lending Group, and was acquired by CIT in 2005. (See January 4, 2005 three-year employment agreement, Balestri Dec., Exh. A, Exh. 1; Balestri Dec., ¶ 4.) 146 of its 232 employees (62.9%) are employed in San Diego. (Balestri Dec., ¶ 5, Exh. B.) Although SLX has no manufacturing production activities, all of its sales and marketing activities are located in San Diego. (Balestri Dec., ¶ 6, Exh. B.) SLX printed, mailed, and approved tens of thousands of student loan applications annually from its San Diego headquarters. (Balestri Dec., ¶ 6.) Further, SLX’ call center, which probably provides the most contact with the public of all of SLX’ activities, is located in San Diego. (Balestri Dec., ¶ 7, Exh. B.) And SLX’ marketing efforts, including responding to requests for bids or proposals from colleges and universities, always identified SLX as being based in San Diego. (Balestri Dec., ¶ 8, Exh. C.) SLX’ accounting and human resources activities take place in San Diego. (Balestri Dec., ¶ 9, Exh. B.) Finally, SLX’ key corporate officers all work from and reside in San Diego. (Balestri Dec., ¶ 10, Exh. D.) Thus, SLX has its principal place of business in California, under the “place of operations” test.

1 4. SLX' Principal Place of Business is in California Under the "Nerve
 2 Center" Test.

3 SLX also has its principal place of business in San Diego, California, under the "nerve
 4 center" test. Balestri, SLX' former president and chief executive officer, was employed in and 5 lives in San Diego. (Balestri Dec., ¶¶ 1, 3.) And of SLX' key executives are employed in and 6 live in San Diego, including:

- 7 • LeeAnn Rohman, chief operating officer;
- 8 • Margaret Bazini, chief financial officer;
- 9 • David Beach, executive vice president and chief marketing officer;
- 10 • Gary Rohmann, executive vice president of business development;
- 11 • Travis Mottet, senior vice president, information and sales support;
- 12 • Donna North, senior vice president, human resources;
- 13 • Ken Guerrero, vice president, academic services;
- 14 • Nicole Casali Joseph, vice president, marketing;
- 15 • Daniel W. King, vice president, call center operations;
- 16 • Rick Nicols, vise president, telephony;
- 17 • Daniel Passov, vice president, online marketing; and
- 18 • Erin Guerrero, vice president, business development. (Balestri Dec., ¶ 10), Exh.
 19 D.)

20 Thus, SLX has its principal place of business in California, under the "nerve center" test.

21 III. Balestri Should Be Awarded Just Costs and Expenses Incurred as the Result of 22 Removal.

23 On granting a motion for remand, the federal court may order the defendant to pay
 24 plaintiff his "just costs and any actual expenses, including attorney fees, incurred as a result of 25 the removal." (28 U.S.C. § 1447(c); see Martin v. Franklin Capital Corp., 546 U.S. 132 (2005).
 26 The statutory purpose is to deter the possibility of abuse, unnecessary expense and harassment if 27 a defendant removes improperly. (Schwarzer, supra, p. 2D-222, ¶ 2:1109; Circle Industries
 28 USA, Inc. v. Parke Constr. Group, Inc., 183 F.3d 105, 109 (2nd Cir. 1999).)

1 In deciding whether an award is “just” under section 1447(c), the key factor is the
2 propriety of the removal. The test is whether the removing party had “an objectively reasonable
3 basis for removal.” (Martin, supra, 546 U.S. at p. 136.) Here, defendants had no objectively
4 reasonable basis for removal because SLX clearly has its principal place of business in 5 California under both the place of operations and nerve center tests. Therefore, Balestri should 6 be awarded just costs and expenses, including attorney fees.

7 IV. Conclusion

8 Based on the foregoing arguments and authorities, the motion to remand should be 9 granted.
